Ministers Have Fine Meeting

AUTUMN DIST. CONFERENCE HERE TUES.-WED.

One of the biggest and most important events ever held in Grayling was that of the Autumn District Conference of the Saginaw district, Methodist Episcopal churches, that closed here Wednesday afternoon. Out of 49 ministers in the district, 46 were present. And with them were wives and laymen of the several churches. The affair was much like the state convention of Danish Lutheran societies here in 1913.

The Rev. Edgar Flory was the host of the visitors and District Superintendent Sidney D. Eva was in charge of the programs.

The conference opened Tuesday at 10 a. m., with a service of worship. The preacher was Dr. C. W. Longman, associate secretary of the Board of Education, Chicago.

Most of the time was taken up with discussions of conference matters. On Tuesday evening Dr. Longman gave another of his masterful sermons. At the supper hour John E. Marvin, associate editor of the Michigan Christian Advocate, discussed the subject Christian Youth Building a New World." The Wednesday program began with devotional service at 8:30 a. m. This was followed by an address by Bishop Frederick T. Keeney of Chicago and Atlanta

At noon Wednesday the Kiwanis club of Grayling were guests of the conference. Bishop Keeney was the speaker.

Thruout the conference musical numbers were given by some of our Grayling women, and the church choir. Among those taking part were Mrs. Milnes, Mrs. Jarmin, Mrs. Gothro, and Mrs. Underwood, all under direction of Mrs. Clippert. Edward Webb surprised the visitors by his fine voice in spite of his 78 years, and received many deserved compli-

The conference adjourned a 3:30 Wednesday afternoon.

STERLING-MARKBY

Saturday evening, Miss Belle Markby, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bert Markby, and Mr. Wilbur Sterling, of Houghton Lake, were united in marriage at the M. E. parsonage, Rev. Edgar Flory officiating. Miss Josephine Dunn and Francis Czykyski were the attending couple.

The bride chose for the occasion a crepe gown of aqua blue, with which she wore black accessories. Miss Dunn chose a frock of rust colored crepe.

Mr. and Mrs. Sterling will make their home with the bride's parents for a time, after which they will make their home at Houghton Lake.

They have the congratulations of their friends for a long and happily wedded life.

We found the pictures most interesting, and also the iron ore. Mildred Smith gave a very picturesque report of her ride over the mountain road to West Virginia.

Nelle Welsh found the Chicago Museum the most fascinating part of her trip to Wisconsin. We would all like to visit the museum.

1st Grade

We have forty-three boys and girls in our first grade room. We are divided into three reading classes: Bluebirds Butterflies and Bluejays. Our reading book is called "The Little Book."

Some of the boys and girls have been bringing colored leaves for our room. In Art class we made leaves to put up in our room. They look very nice.

Clifton Papendick brought a plant for our window and some hovs and girls brought books for our library table. We are trying to make our room as attractive a

Grange Holds Booster Meeting

The Grange Booster meeting held Wednesday night of last week at the I. O. O. F. temple was a grand success. There was a fine large crowd present to listen to the program that had been arranged by Crawford County Grange No. 934.

Many local people aside from members were invited and there was a gathering of some 125 people. The program was varied with interesting talks, speeches and musical numbers that were With the first practice session well prepared and received. just around the corner Grayling

After the meeting had been opened with due ceremony and to note the basketball schedule the flag salute was lead by Mrs. Rufus Edmunds, Hugo Schreiber Jr., master of the local Grange welcomed the assemblage and gave a resume of what Booster Night meant. At this time he introduced F. J. Mills as master of ceremonies for the evening.

Mr. Vandercook told of the benefits from the railroads to local communities and urged strongly that the Grange get behind the movement to keep the railroads. ON THE FENCE this month were both Frank D. Fitzgerald, Michigan's farm-minded Governor, and Henry Ford, the State's farm-minded manufacturer. The two notables were not "on the fence" figuratively or politically, but quite literally. Reporters did not disturb them and the full course of their conrersation goes unrecorded, but the Governor told me later in the day that politics didn't enter into things at all. "We just sat there and talked agriculture," said the Governor, himself an able farmer, "and Mr. Ford avversed himself 'and Mr. Ford expressed himself as believing the future of agriculture was quite promising. He seemed to be optimistic for Michigan farmers in particular, and as we discussed farm machinery as we discussed farm machinery I was surprised at Mr. Ford's great interest in the subject and his keen interest in farm problems, and told him so. He told me that the industrial field was his business, but that the agricultural field was his hobby."

GRAND OLD PARTY followers smiled and did a bit of back-slapping amongst themselves when newspapers and the radio brought them news of the Maine elections. But shortly thereafter they merged their jubilant spirits in triumphant celebration when they learned of the unprecedented Republican triumphs at the polls in their own state of Michigan. JERRY HAS A SAD AWAKENING.

THE stranger had visited the smiling Pool as he had been doing for more than a week. Jerry Muskrat had kept right on working on his house. All the time he had kept a bright eye on the stranger to see what he was doing. As usual the stranger visited each of Jerry's favorite eating places. It seemed to Jerry that he was at each a little longer than usual, but Jerry didn't think anything of that.

Just as soon as the stranger had left Jerry swam straight over to a certain old log which lay half in the water and half on the bank. He felt sure that on the upper part of pieces of apple or carrot. He wasn't disappointed. His nose told him they were there even before he could see them. Now ordinarily Jerry climbed right up that old log out of the water, but this time he didn't. It just happened so, that was all. He climbed out on the bank beside the log and then up on the log. There he sat down and began to eat. My, how good those pieces of apple and carrot did taste! You see. Jerry had been working very hard and he had a splendid appetite.

At first he sat facing the water. After a while he changed his position so that his back was to the water and his tail dropped down in the water where it covered the lower part of that old log.

Snap! With a squeal of pain and fright Jerry jumped right up in the air. He lost his balance and fell off the old log. Then he tried to scramble away. He couldn't. Something was holding him by his tail and pinching it most dreadfully Jerry was too frightened to think He couldn't imagine what dread-ful thing had got him. He pulled and pulled until it seemed to him that he must pull his tail out by the roots. Finally he twisted around to see what held him. It was a trap! The stout cruel jaws of it were gripping his tail about an inch

Then Jerry understood. He awakened to the truth, and it was a sad awakening. That stranger WAS a trapper after all. He had been putting those good things there for Jerry so that he would get so used to finding them that his suspicions would be put to sleep. When he was quite sure that Jerry had grown careless and was no longer suspi-cious of traps he had placed a trap on that old log just under water.

If Jerry had climbed up on that old log as usual he would have stepped in that trap and been caught by a leg. As it was, he had accidentally sprung it with his tail. Being caught by the tail was bad enough, but it would have been worse to have been caught by a leg though Jerry didn't stop to think or this at the time. So far as he could see it didn't make any difference how he was caught as long as he was caught.

Poor Jerry! He was so frightened that for the time being he hardly noticed the pain.

Landon Urges Wisconsin to Save Its Ideal Homes

Milwaukee, Wis. — "Wisconsin, with its thousands of beautiful homes and high percentage of home owners, is an example of much that is best in American life today," Gov. Alf M. Landon, Presidential nominee, wired the Republican State convention here. "Your decentralized industry, including thousands of small manufacturing plants living and prospering side by side with larger corporations, represent an ideal and a balance which we must strive and to which the Republican party is com-mitted by its platform."

Landon's telegram continued: These small homes and businesses have been built by a frugal people schooled in the old fasher before known a campaign which has evidenced so greatly the quiet determination of men and women to save for themselves and their children the things that we Americans hold most dear. The American people have an appreciation of the value of good government and are prepared to fight for it."

John D. M. Hamilton, national chairman, speaking at the convention, referred to American citizens "stockholders" in the federal government, accusing the administration of misleading its stock holders: "Your stockholders would like to learn, Mr. Morgenthau, why in recalling that the Treasury esti mated in 1934 a $4,000,000,000 deficit for the fiscal year just ended, you omitted the fact that in the same year 1934, your Chief Executive promised that the deficit for this period would be zero, and be fore a United States senate committee as recently as last April you predicted it would be nearly 6,000,000,000

Mr. Hamilton said the country is swinging to Landon because his common humanity has impressed itself upon the people, who realize he knows how to keep his promises, that he is of and for the common people and that instead of adding to the burden of taxation imposed upon the common man Governor Landon can be depended upon to deal with governmental deficits as the ugly things they are."
